MOVER ACTION COMMITTEE

Members of the Mover Action Committee are trusted advisors and provide our team with valuable insight on how to inspire support for Move For Hunger within their professional networks. They are well-respected, experienced, and possess a keen understanding of what it takes to build consensus among their peers. Their impact, however, extends far beyond the relocation industry. In 2019, members of the Committee and the companies they represent delivered more than 845,000 lbs. of non-perishables to food banks nationwide and raised nearly $80,000 to support our hunger relief & food rescue programs.

A NOTE FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Dear Friends,

Move For Hunger's 10th Anniversary was everything we hoped it could be.

In 2019, we made sure to recognize the companies, volunteers, and donors who have transformed our scrappy little start-up into a nationally-recognized non-profit organization. We continued to build on that foundation by expanding our multi-family program, developing new employee engagement experiences, and by welcoming new partners, such as Assurant, Kastle, and CarsArrive to our movement. And, most importantly, we established new records by collecting more than 3.6 million lbs. of food and providing 3 million meals to people who are facing hunger.

Over the next 3 years, Move For Hunger will continue to create sustainable processes that we can ingrain within the moving, multi-family, and relocation industries. We need to explore new opportunities, like freight shipping, to figure out the best way to utilize the transportation resources that are already on the road. And, ideally, we will find a way to incorporate refrigerated trucks into our fleet, so that we can help food banks receive more of the fresh produce, meat, and dairy products that they so desperately need.

When I founded Move For Hunger back in 2009, I didn't know much about the problems that I was trying to address. I saw resources that were being underutilized and an industry that had the capacity to help. For a long time, our solution to hunger and food waste was simple: rescue the billions of pounds of food we are wasting every year and get it to the people who need it most. Move For Hunger provided the platform and process for companies to take action in their local communities. And it worked!

As the years went on, though, I learned even more about the issues we were trying to tackle. The sad truth of it is, hunger and food waste are complicated problems that require complicated solutions. The work Move For Hunger is doing is incredibly important, and I'm proud of the tremendous growth we've seen over the past year. But it's still not enough.

Hunger is merely a symptom of poverty, and we, as non-profits, for-profits, and individual citizens, need to start taking steps to address the root causes. Rescuing food is certainly better than throwing it away, but we must rethink the supply chain if we hope to eliminate food waste entirely. Moving forward, we have to confront these issues head on. Which is why, in the years ahead, we will be providing our network with better educational resources, adding new content to our website, and integrating opportunities for further discussion into our corporate and community activations.

Move For Hunger has always been a creative, dynamic organization and we will continue to adapt when we see an opportunity to make a greater impact. This is a natural progression, not a departure from what has made us successful. Although hunger may be on the decline, hard times will eventually come again. Our food banking partners are expanding their programming to meet new challenges and serve more people. We commit to do the same.

Thank you,

Adam Lowy
Executive Director

Adam accepted a $25,000 donation from Assurant when we launched our new partnership at the National Apartment Association's annual conference in June.

Adam and the rest of the Move For Hunger team participated in the 2nd annual New Jersey Truck Pull, presented by Crown Relocations.

Adam met up with members of our Corporate Action Network during the Worldwide ERC conference in Boston in October.

Move For Hunger officially turned 10 years old on August 26 and, to celebrate, we launched our 10th Anniversary Sweepstakes!

Anyone who made a $25 donation through Giving Tuesday on December 3 was entered to win one of three amazing prizes: a Trip to Cabo, a Best of Chicago Package, or a Disney World Vacation! Donors also had a chance to win a number of great mini prizes throughout the Sweepstakes, including autographed memorabilia, gift cards, and tickets to amusement parks.

174 generous donors contributed to the campaign and we raised $10,000 overall! Because of their support, we'll be able to provide 24,000 meals to people who are facing hunger.

THE STATE OF HUNGER

Move For Hunger was founded at the height of the Great Recession. Back in 2009, 14.7% of households in the United States were food insecure, which was an increase of more than 30% from 2007. Household food insecurity peaked in 2011 at 14.9% and has continued to decline ever since. In 2018, the household food insecurity rate finally returned to its pre-Recession level of 11.1%.

While that progress should be celebrated, we should not assume that we are winning the war against hunger. The rate of household food insecurity was 11.9% in 1995, which means that, despite increased distribution, better data on where and why hunger exists, and a new commitment to prevent food waste, not much has actually changed over the past 25 years.

If wages for the average worker remain stagnant, if the cost of housing continues to outpace incomes, if Americans are forced to take on more and more debt to pay medical bills or finance their education, then we will see the rate of food insecurity rise again when the next economic downturn arrives. And, this time, millions of people may not have important safety net programs, like SNAP, to help them weather the storm.

One Day, One Million LBS. of Food

For the last 6 years, Move For Hunger has made it a priority to assist with the Stamp Out Hunger food drive in any way we can. Our network has the trucks and the manpower to ease some of the burden on the post offices and food banks who are doing the lion's share of the work. This year, 45 moving companies picked up more than 1 million lbs. of food from 63 collection points across 17 states and delivered it to their local food banks.

Take a Bite Out of Hunger

We organized more than 200 Shark Week food drives all across the country this year and collected more than 19,000 lbs. of tuna, salmon, and other non-perishables overall.

DN VAN LINES WRAPS TRUCK

“Food insecurity is not a topic that often is widely discussed. It’s so important to play a role in raising awareness about hunger & food waste among the people and corporations we service. That’s why we thought it was such a good idea to wrap one of our trucks in support of Move For Hunger. We have found that most people are willing to get behind a good cause once it is brought to their attention.”

- Oded Carmi, DN Van Lines

DN Van Lines wrapped one of their trucks to encourage people in Massachusetts to donate their food when they move.

HILLDRUP COMES THROUGH IN THE CLUTCH

Hilldrup of Atlanta made time to pick up more than 700 lbs. of food from 3 student living communities and delivered it to the Food Bank of Northeast Georgia.

“August is a busy month in our moving industry but when Move for Hunger reached out for help, we knew how important it was to do whatever we could to get the food donations to the place where they could do the most good. It was an easy decision for us to adjust our schedule and make it happen!”

- Brandi Hatch, Hilldrup of Atlanta

MAFFUCCI MOVING MAKES A CONNECTION

Maffucci Moving and Storage made bi-weekly trips to deliver food donations from the Long Island Cares headquarters to a partner food pantry in Lindenhurst.

“We are proud to support Move for Hunger’s fight to end hunger in our community. Thank you to all of our clients, employees, and friends for helping us provide 10,000 desperately-needed meals to people in our area this year.”

- Judd Levine, Maffucci Moving & Storage

FOOD RESCUE & SUSTAINABILITY

Reducing food waste requires sustainable solutions. And that's exactly what Move For Hunger has created over the past 10 years.

What began with one company has expanded rapidly across the moving, multi-family, and relocation industries. Every day, members of our network are educating their customers, residents, and employees about the steps they can take to reduce food waste on moving day, and beyond.

Since we work with such an amazing collection of corporate partners, we've also been able to assist with larger food recovery efforts. In 2019, we rescued 204,605 lbs. of food/beverages from 21 endurance events, like marathons and triathlons, all across the country. Our partners from Gentle Giant Moving of Philadelphia have made gleaning from a local farm an annual tradition. And our friends from Anchor Moving & Storage saved 3 tons of chocolate milk and delivered it to a local food pantry.

Paxton Van Lines rescued 21,420 lbs. of food and drinks from the Rock 'n' Roll D.C. Marathon, Half Marathon & 5K and delivered it to the Capital Area Food Bank.

Anchor Moving & Storage rescued 3 tons of chocolate milk from Balford Farms and delivered it to the TOUCH NJ Food Pantry.

million Americans

Despite all of the attention food waste has received over the past decade, however, we are still wasting 40% of the food in the United States every year. Move For Hunger can't solve the problem alone, but we do believe it is possible to eliminate food waste from the relocation process entirely. Why is that important? Because 32.4 million Americans moved last year. If we had collected one pound of food from each of them, we would have been able to provide 27 million meals to families in need.

MULTI-FAMILY PROGRAM BY THE NUMBERS

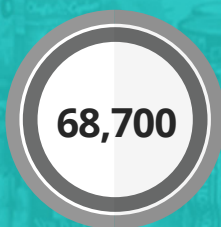

The Multi-Family Program continued to expand rapidly in 2019. And this year, the participating properties became even more engaged, as they organized hundreds of food drives all across the country.

RAISING AWARENESS

Move For Hunger is creating change that lasts long after moving day has come and gone.

Customized Program Letter

Food Collection Bags

Every member of our network receives a customized program letter, which prominently features a snapshot of the hunger statistics in their area, that they can distribute to their customers, employees, and/or residents.

All of the multi-family properties we work with also distribute food collection bags to their residents that display food waste and childhood hunger statistics on a national level.

MoveForHunger.org has several resources for anyone who'd like to gain a deeper understanding about the causes of hunger, food waste, and homelessness in the United States.

HUNGER FACTS

FOOD WASTE

HOMELESSNESS

Our food drives and fundraisers, meanwhile, are also opportunities to educate everyone who attends by providing them with information that can help them recognize the scope of the crisis we are facing.

Our belief is that, when people recognize the scale of the problem, they will be motivated to take action in other ways. They might begin to write their elected officials and advocate for the policies that could alleviate hunger in their community. Maybe they'll start composting to ensure that even less organic waste ends up in a landfill. At the very least, they'll probably share what they've learned with their family and friends. It all adds up.

MSS KNOCKS OUT HUNGER!

“ Move For Hunger is the philanthropic face of our industry and they deserve all the help we can muster. As suppliers who don't fit into the donation model, we're always looking for opportunities to do our part, whether through financial support or by engaging our community through food drives. These events keep us all connected to the bigger picture. ”

- Aurora Hughes, Movers' Specialty Services

WEICHERT WORKFORCE MOBILITY COLLECTS 1,120 LBS. OF PB&J

“ I believe that this will be a fantastic addition to Weichert's current Corporate Social Responsibility efforts and, most importantly, allows us to do our part to help feed hungry people throughout the U.S. ”

- William Vogt, Weichert Workforce Mobility

In June, Weichert Workforce Mobility offices across the United States and Canada held Peanut Butter & Jelly food drives to help fight hunger during the summer months.

ATLAS CANADA AGENTS COLLECT 4,300 LBS. OF FOOD

Ten Atlas Canada agents participated in their second annual Thanksgiving food drive.

“ Atlas Canada is a proud supporter of Move For Hunger's mission to fight hunger in our country and we will continue to work as a team to help in any way we can. Organizing and promoting charitable events like this allows our employees to feel more connected to our local communities, and to each other. ”

- Barry Schellenberg, Atlas Canada

UMS BANKING CANS THEIR PRESIDENT

UMS Banking filled president Jim Harris's office with 450 lbs. of non-perishable food in May.

“ We are excited to support such a worthy cause that is so instrumental in helping thousands of people who don't always have enough food to eat. Move For Hunger is helping people all across the U.S. and, chances are, they are helping someone in your neighborhood - that speaks volumes. ”

- Jim Harris, UMS Banking

EMPLOYEE ENGAGEMENT AND TEAM BUILDING

Move For Hunger believes that serving your community can and should be a joyful experience.

That's why we work with our partners throughout the year to organize fun, engaging, team-building activities that support our mission to reduce food waste and fight hunger. In addition to our featured food drive and fundraising campaigns, we have also collaborated with many companies to create unique volunteer experiences for their employees or at industry conferences. Here's a look at just a few of the corporate volunteering events that we coordinated in 2019.

Our partners from Assurant hosted an ArCANtecture competition at their offices in Miami in October. Employees built structures using cans of food and were judged based on their creativity, the amount of food they used, and the stability of their design.

We organized a SNAP Challenge with our partners from Crown Relocations at this year's Worldwide ERC Conference in Boston. Crown's clients got a glimpse of how difficult life is for low-income Americans who rely on SNAP to budget for a nutritious diet and avoid hunger with limited resources.

In March, we hosted the Vanliner Open, a 9-hole mini golf tournament during the American Moving & Storage Association's annual conference in Houston. The course was built using cans and boxes of non-perishable food, all of which was donated to the Houston Food Bank.

At the International Association of Movers annual meeting in Chicago presented by our partner Enterprise Database Corporation, we organized the first-ever Pack-A-Palooza competition. Moving professionals from around the globe faced-off to see who could load a liftvan with empty boxes the fastest.

We're always happy to see when members of our network receive recognition for the important work they are doing to reduce food waste and fight hunger. Move For Hunger was mentioned online, in print, or on television more than 2,100 times in 2019. Here are a few of our favorite headlines.

This year, they helped manage the expansion of our multi-family program by ensuring that every property received the materials they needed to start collecting food. They also created graphics and animated videos to promote our 10th Anniversary Sweepstakes, helped re-launch our website, secured sponsors for events and prizes for our donors, and played a huge part in coordinating 1,525 food drives we organized in 2019.

“ My internship at Move For Hunger has allowed me to explore the nonprofit world while showing me how learning in the classroom can be applied to the workplace. The most rewarding part about this internship was being able to leave work every day knowing that I was making a difference in people’s lives. I am very thankful for each team member who took the time to teach me and guide me for the last few months. My advice for future interns at Move For Hunger is to be open to new experiences and absorb everything you possibly can from the people around you! ”

OUR VISION

Move For Hunger is dedicated to fostering community partnerships that will continue to grow organically for years to come.

By connecting moving companies with their local food bank or pantry, we can help bridge the hunger gap in communities all across the United States and Canada.

Our Multi-Family Program has been quickly adopted by many of the world's leading property management companies because it's both seamless and sustainable.

We will challenge millions of people to confront the issues of hunger and food waste and provide them with opportunities to take action.

We are committed to changing the way entire industries do business.

We're creating meaningful experiences for employees at socially-responsible companies, like AmericanEagle.com, that will leave a lasting impact.

Together, we will create a world where no food is wasted, and everyone has enough to eat.
